WHITE LEADS; EGLOFF AND PRICE IN SHERIFF'S RUNOFF

Observations...

By the Editor

Well, the first primary election is now history and we are digesting our serving of "crow soup" very well; but we are certainly not taking on any "sour grapes". We sincerely hope that other boys who are joined with us in the list of defeated candidates will assume the same attitude. As we said in our column the week before election, "We could not all be elected", and the voters have expressed their choice. There is much to be done to help our county move forward, and we should not let our political differences become personal differences. This has been the death knell of the March of Progress that Hancock County should be enjoying. As we have repeatedly said, we will never move forward until such time as the business men of Hancock County can sit across the table from one another forgetting their petty political and personal differences. The time to have those differences are during the election, and, when this is over, tuck them away for another four years, and let all hands be joined together in one thought in mind. Build a bigger and better Hancock County.

Your editor wants to express thanks and appreciation to his many friends who cast their votes for him in the primary election last Tuesday. As we said above we are eating crow soup, but are not taking on any sour grapes. We have one thought in mind and that is to help build Hancock County, and we again pledge ourselves to that purpose. We are going to continue giving you one of the best newspapers in the State, expressing our views editorially on matters affecting the welfare of our county. With these few words, we bid you a political adieu.

Rev. O. Anderson Addresses Baptist Mission Society

Rev. O. B. Anderson, Gulf Coast Baptist Association Missionary, addressed the Missionary Society of the Baptist church here Tuesday.

Rev. Anderson talked on the great need of mission work on the coast and urged the ladies to be more "missionary minded". He cited a case of a man who fell on the street of his home town, and when aid came to him it was found that he had not eaten for two days. Every one wanted to feed him, yet before that they were not wholly conscious of his existence and less conscious of his need. Baptist people he said must be made conscious of the need for missionary work on the coast and missions must be established wherever there is a field for them.

Rev. Anderson's talk was in preparation of the Church School of Missions to be held on the coast in September. This is a coastwide school of missions and the Bay St. Louis church will have speakers and workers in the church here during the time of the mission school.

$ Day Crowd May Break The Record

Shoppers in Gulfport Wednesday, August 15, will find numerous special values in many types of merchandise as over 100 Gulfport merchants take part in their second semi-annual City-Wide DOLLAR DAY conducted by the Gulfport Chamber of Commerce.

Marvin Fortner, chairman, reported that Dollar Day will offer customers a host of values in spite of the inflation scare and government price ceilings. Gulfport merchants have been purchasing new fall merchandise for the past several weeks in anticipation of DOLLAR DAY.

The entire family will benefit in clothing values and accessories for the annual back-to-school shopping. Home-makers will find numerous marked-down items to help them balance their budget.

To make the day a convenient one for the shopper, and to put on a festive air, the merchants committee has obtained permission from the city, to cap the heads of all parking meters in the downtown area with paper sacks, permitting motorists to park during shopping hours, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., without charge.

Store clerks will wear crisp new dollar bills on their lapels. All riders into Gulfport who board the city buses at any point along the line of the Biloxi-Gulfport bus routes will be permitted to ride free of charge to the downtown district of Gulfport. Special Dollar Day window displays and merchandise arrangements are also being planned by the stores.

Officials of the Gulfport Chamber of Commerce stated that the first Dollar Day held in February drew the largest crowds ever seen in Gulfport and the second Dollar Day on August 15 is expected to surpass the record set in February.

O P S NEWS

THOMAS B. TERRY IS NEW DISTRICT DIRECTOR FOR OPS

Appointment of Thomas B. Terry, widely known retired business man, as District Director of the Office of Price Stabilization for Mississippi, was announced by George D. Patterson, Jr., Regional OPS Director.

Mr. Terry was president of Evans-Terry Company, wholesale merchants of Laurel, Mississippi, until his retirement last year.

He was instrumental in organizing the Mississippi Wholesale Grocers Association and served as president for several years. In 1935 he was the first southerner to be elected president of the National-American Wholesale Grocers Association. He is also a past president of Laurel Chamber of Commerce and currently is a member of the Board of Directors of the Commercial National Bank & Trust Company of Laurel. During World War II he was a member of the Wholesale Food Advisory Committee in Washington.

Mr. Terry is a native of Meridian. He assumed his new duties on July 25 at the Jackson District OPS Office. He succeeds William A. Byrd, who several weeks ago was transferred to the Atlanta Regional OPS Office as Regional Enforcement Director. Wade H. Creekmore, District Price Executive, has been acting District Director pending appointment of a successor to Mr. Byrd.

PRICE CONTROL AIMS EXPLAINED BY PRESIDENT

"The basic objective of price control now is to hold the general price line," the President of the United States says in his economic report to Congress. Ceiling prices should not be raised, he said, except where essential to provide adequate production incentives to business, or to correct clearly inequitable situations.

"Just as some upward adjustments of some price will be needed, some rollbacks will be needed in selected cases, for example, where prices or profits are excessively high. This is the practical way to maintain adequate flexibility in the price structure, while holding the general price line."

On the subject of the present price situation facing the American people, the President's report said "The easing of the inflationary pressures since spring has been due partly to larger civilian supplies. It has also reflected high taxes, credit restraints, and the application of price and wage controls early this year. Moreover, as the military situation improved, many consumers switched from frantic buying to cautious buying while businesses felt that some inventories were excessive and curtailed their orders."

"These recent developments have led some people to think that the inflationary trend is ended. This is a dangerous assumption. We cannot accept it as a guide to national policy."

"The fundamental fact is that we must increase the annual rate of national security expenditures by about 30 billion dollars during the next year. In order to produce more airplanes, tanks, and other munitions, we must continue the cutbacks which have been in the production of consumer and investment goods, and possibly make further cuts. Winning the battle against inflation is an essential element in our struggle for peace," the report to Congress said.

COLBERT DUDLEY ASSUMES DUTIES AS OPS COUNSEL

Colbert Dudley, Jackson attorney, was recently appointed District Counsel and has assumed his duties in the Jackson OPS Office.

Mr. Dudley has been a member of the Jackson firm, Adams, Dudley & Uhalt, Price Control Consultants, since October 1950. Prior to that time he was connected with the local Veterans Administration Regional Office as legal rating specialist.

In 1942 Mr. Dudley came to Jackson from Forest, Mississippi and was investigator rent enforcement attorney and rationing attorney for the Office of Price Administration during World War II. He formerly practiced law at Forest as a law partner of the late Wood C. Eastland, father of Senator James O. Eastland.

Mr. Dudley is married and has one son in Tulane University. He is a graduate of Mississippi College and a member of the American Legion and Veteran of Foreign Wars.

POSTING SUSPENDED

Pending final action by Congress on price control legislation, the Office of Price Stabilization has suspended until further notice the requirement that meat retailers post ceiling prices of beef cuts. Posting was due August 1. This action in no way changes the requirement that all retail prices be at or below ceilings.

CANNED VEGETABLES

The Office of Price Stabilization is placing the billion dollar canned vegetable industry under ceiling price regulation.

The regulation will permit price adjustments for changes in raw materials cost and some other costs. The regulation, to be effective August 5, first affects canned peas. Other major vegetable packs will be regulated later. Base period for figuring costs will be the first 60 days of the 1948 pack, and this will result in some price decreases as well as increases.

Special pricing provisions are made for grower-owned cooperatives, grower-processors and processors who buy raw materials on open-end contracts. Processor-wholesalers and processor-retailers are given different treatment. Packers and processors in Mississippi who want further information can get it from the OPS District Office in Jackson.

CONTRACT TRUCKERS

Contract motor carriers have been authorized by OPS to request adjustment of rate ceilings because of increases in wages, material and equipment costs during or since the latter part of 1950. This authorization applies to most truckers operating on contracts including tank vehicles hauling milk in bulk. It excludes common carriers, motor carriers engaged in pick-up and delivery or local transfer service, and tank vehicles hauling liquids other than milk. Truckers can get information and consideration of their requested adjustments from the Jackson OPS District Office.

Why SPEED to DESTRUCTION

A Mississippi Safety Council official in Jackson today charged that the hospitals and cemeteries are full of ex-drivers who shrugged off some road sign on the mistaken notion that whoever put it there didn't know what he was doing.

Clant Seay, Vice-President of The State Council explained that "a great many intersections having 'Stop' signs are deceptively safe-looking, but have a bloody history behind them that necessitated the original installation of these controls."

Seay cautioned that in the same way, each speed limit and warning sign is a silent testimonial to day and weeks of investigation and testing by traffic experts in their efforts to determine at what speed, and under what conditions the road may be safely traveled.

Entering into this, Seay said, are studies of the road's surface; what effects various weather conditions have on it; topography of the country through which the road travels; principles of inertia; and other factors that seldom occur to the average driver.

Seay emphasized that no traffic sign or signal "is thrown up at random simply because it is found lying around in the sign shop."

Meanwhile, officials of the Safety Council Headquarters in Jackson, estimated that for every "100 drivers involved in a fatal accident there are about 22 cases where a sign, signal, or traffic officer had been ignored."

These officials pointed out that over familiarity with the traffic signs, signals and regulations in any territory frequently traveled by a driver tends to dull his alertness and make him potential accident victim.

One official declared flatly that "for every driver involved in an accident who genuinely doesn't see the traffic sign or signal, there are probably a hundred who do see it and either fail to comprehend its meaning in time to avert a crash, or they ignore it." The official is A. S. Windham, executive director of the Council's State-wide office headquarters.

Warning of this tendency, council officials cautioned all drivers to regard all street and highway signs as "signals of danger."

Relations between the United States and Japan have reached the stage where it is plain that any shipment of war materials to the Japanese will be adding strength to a nation plainly bent upon asserting predominant rights in an area that is of vital interest to the country.

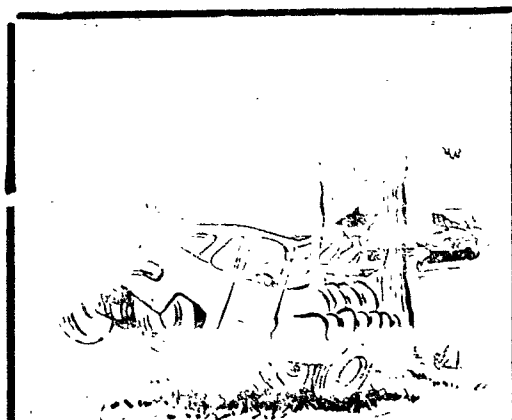

It would be foolish for this country to weaken itself by making hazardous the supply of rubber, tin, etc., or to acquiesce in a course which will make it easier for Japan, at a later date, to risk direct attack.

Lines of Defense!

Mississippi's rapid growth, agriculturally and industrially, during the past five years has demanded greatly expanded telephone facilities—and Southern Bell has responded by increasing the number of telephones in the state from 103,269 on January 1, 1946 to more than 230,000 as of June 1, this year.

The principal purpose of these additional telephones and the thousands of miles of wire connecting them has been to increase the efficiency and productivity of our farms and factories. Now they are to become part of our lines of defense by helping to speed preparedness.

Preparedness demands even more lines of communication—alternate routes to guard against interruptions in case of attack; more lines to serve newly activated camps and bases; to form a network of air-raid warnings; to act as a nerve-center to bind our whole defense system closer together.

For these precautions, your Telephone Company must spend millions of dollars!—This money cannot be taken out of earnings from telephone rates; it must be secured from investors who are satisfied with the dividends we pay. . . . Yes, the needs of our nation, of the people who work for us, and of those whose money works for us, demand that our earnings be maintained at a reasonable rate.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES

FUN WITH OUTDOOR BARBECUE

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

Is your's one of the many families who have the spot selected to add a barbecue fireplace to your outdoor living area?

Even with no experience, you and your family can build an outdoor barbecue fireplace to be the focal point of the family living area in the yard. Don't let the word "barbecue" scare you. It no longer means you have to roast a pig or a cow. You can call your fireplace a "barbecue" even if you use it for nothing more than to roast a few hot dogs.

Do a little planning before you mix a lot of concrete. There is a tendency to build outdoor fireplaces too big and without considering the need for table and bench space.

Ordinarily 2 1/2 feet of cooking surface will be enough, with side walls fairly level for resting pans. Location. Look your selected site over before you actually build your outdoor fireplace. Answer these questions and select another location, if the answer shows the original one inconvenient.

1. Do I want it on the porch, on the terrace, adjoining the house or in an area away from the house?

2. Will prevailing winds carry the smoke and grease away from the house and away from the guests who gather around the fireplace?

3. Will it be convenient to the kitchen door for use in carrying food and cooking utensils?

4. Will it be overhung with trees and shrubs that may be killed by the heat?

5. Would it be possible to combine an incinerator with the fireplace to use in disposing of trash.

Note the direction of prevailing winds and give your fireplace some form of protection from high winds that scatter sparks and ashes. Pick a site that is well drained and grade it to keep water away from the footings. A background of evergreen shrubs is effective with an outdoor fireplace and will give privacy as well as the feeling of an outdoor kitchen.

Cost and Size. The amount of money you have to invest in the outdoor barbecue project will determine largely the size of your fire place. You can build a small camp type with a suitable chimney two or three feet high for around $10.00 for materials.

Scrap iron reinforcement rods 5/8 inch in diameter or pipe 1/2 to 3/4 inch serve well for a grill. These grill rods should be 6 to 9 inches longer than the width of the firebox, spaced about one inch apart and leveled to keep pots and pans on a firm base. Cement them into the masonry at the sides.

You can buy fireplace parts at the hardware store and build your fireplace according to directions. Dutch ovens with cast iron doors, spits for roasting, dampers, ash dumps, and so forth, are available in many styles.

Common brick is usually the most inexpensive and easiest to handle material for the masonry work. Ordinary field stone makes an attractive barbecue and can be secured for the cost of gathering around a brook or a dry run. A nice plan for harmony in the over-all picture is to repeat in the fireplace the same stone or brick used for walks, porches, chimneys and terraces. Small stones or brick cemented at random in a concrete base and chimney form will make an attractive fireplace.

It is a good idea to line the fire box with fire brick and to use a fire lining in the chimney. These keep heat from disintegrating your masonry work. Ordinary stove pipe has been used successfully as a core for some concrete chimneys.

You can make a good mortar with 1 part Portland cement, 1 part hydrated lime and 6 parts slay well mixed with enough water to make the texture of sticky mud. Fire brick, however, are

You will have the least trouble the best laid in fine clay.

If you build the flue and brick of stone veneer about 6 to 8 inches high at a time. A concrete slab 6 to 9 inches thick usually is strong enough for the average size fireplace where drainage is good and frost conditions favorable. This slab should run 5 to 7 inches below the ground level.

If you place a large fireplace with a tall chimney, it is wise to provide a deep footing of 14 to 18 inches below ground level.

A blue print for building an outdoor barbecue fireplace of somewhat more elaborate design than the one described is available from the home agent's office. A simpler design is being blue printed by the Agricultural Extension Service Blue Print Department, at State College and should be available soon from the home agent.

Improved Pasture On Every Farm

By JAMES TOLER

PASTURES

An Improved Pasture on Every Farm, the slogan of the National Grassland Farming Program, is a big job but one of the most interesting, profitable and lasting jobs the farmer can do.

Grass can keep both livestock and man well fed and the land itself rich, too, it prevents erosion. Pastures are a five, way crop, they give grazing, hay, silage, rain and seed. Profit with pastures.

Before starting winter pastures, mow every pasture on the farm to control weeds, bushes and briars and to get off the tough old plants that livestock will not eat.

Cut lespedeza for hay before all the bottom leaves have dropped off. It will pay to cut lespedeza when in early bloom stage, rake into windrows as soon as wilted and shock to cure. Or, leave in windrows until next day, then bale and haul to barn loose.

If you want early fall and winter grazing and a real stand of fescue and ladino early, follow the land during August and plant in early September.

What to do in August. Spread lime on all areas needing it. Protect all pastures from overgrazing. Cut all grazing for winter, hay. Control horseflies, horn flies, ticks and screw worms. Plan to take at least one area out of broom-sedge. Clear pasture area of bushes. Control cypress weeds with the mowing machine.

GARDENING

FALL PLANTING—It is now Irish Potato planting time. Plant now for a good crop of fall Irish potatoes. In addition to Irish potatoes, pole snap beans, bush lima beans, beets, carrots, parsley, Chinese cabbage, six-week peas, Swiss chard, collards, tendergreens, rutabagas, leaf lettuce, mustard, winter spinach, rape and turnips can be planted this month. Too, tomato plants and suckers can be set out to give a supply of fresh tomatoes until frost and have some to store for the early part of the winter.

In the midst of the turmoil of world affairs and the temporary heat of the political campaign here in Mississippi, the 106 old men out at the Old Men's Home in Madison county are pursuing the even tenor of their way, enjoying kind treatment, good food, and resting in the shade of trees after many, many years of travel down the highway of life in a world that sometimes smiled and sometimes frowned on them. In this number are some of the finest citizens the state has ever produced. There is a former college president, a former state senator, a man who made the highest scholastic record ever made at State College in its long history, and many others of more or less interest.

P. M. A. Urges Farmers To Check On Soil And Water Conservation

Farmers of Hancock County who are carrying out the more technical soil and water conservation practices under the 1951 Agricultural Conservation Program are urged to check on specifications of these practices to make sure they meet program standards.

According to Fitzhugh Lee, Chairman of the county PMA Committee, unless such practices do meet these standards, they will fail to qualify for assistance under the program.

Lee explains that the county PMA committee has been charged with the responsibility of seeing that assistance provided under ACP is used to aid in carrying out essential soil and water conservation practices. To make sure of this, certain standards have been established and specifications set up to meet these standards.

Under the coordination of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's conservation efforts, the Soil Conservation Service has the responsibility of checking on the more technical practices, the chairman explains. Arrangements for this service are made through the county PMA committee.

Among the practices requiring SCS checking are the construction of terraces, establishing of sod waterways, building ponds for livestock water and erosion control, diversion ditches, and drainage practices.

Farmers who expect to apply for assistance under ACP for any of these or similar practices should first check with a member of the county PMA committee or someone designated by them.

CAMP SHELBY

The House Armed Services Committee has reported the Military Public Works Bill authorizing the expenditures of approximately six and one-half billion dollars worth of military installations. Among the projects authorized is Camp Shelby, Mississippi, with an expenditure of $7,355,450.00. The bill will likely come to the floor within the next ten days.

There has been widespread interest in the proposed reactivation of this camp, particularly in South Mississippi, for the past several months. We have kept in close touch with the situation throughout and have repeatedly urged the military leaders responsible for the preparation of the defense of this country to reactivate Camp Shelby if the training program required new training facilities.

There have been all types of rumors and reports for these past several months as to just what was to be done with the World War I and II Camp. These reports from one to the effect that one-hundred million dollars would be expended there for the training of all-Negro troops down to another extreme that an underground facility would be established there at a cost of one-half billion or more dollars. The Armed Services Committee's report on this subject, based upon the testimony of the Army High Training Command as to just what would be done with Camp Shelby and some nine other camp locations of prior wars, leaves little doubt as to the present thinking of those who are charged with the responsibility of training future soldiers for the Army.

After discussing at some length the present views of the Joint Chiefs of Staff as to the necessity for additional training facilities the report states as follows:

"The question then arises: 'Should we make some provision for additional minimum-type facilities to accommodate a large number of troops within a minimum period of time, as a matter of insurance for defense?' The committee has taken the position that such facilities should be authorized and has approved the establishment of certain installations known as railhead facilities. Each of these facilities was an Army post, camp, or station during World War II; and the majority of them, including the land, were disposed of after VJ-Day. The proposal is to reactivate or reacquire these former posts, camps, or stations, install the overhead and underground utilities, rehabilitate the street and road work network, and provide a bare minimum of mobilization-type buildings to support a large number of troops in the event of total mobilization. The housing facilities for the troops would consist of tents. A small troop complement would keep the station in a caretaker status, ready for immediate occupancy, and, in the event of total mobilization, each of those stations would be in a position to receive its full complement of troops within a period of 6 weeks as contrasted to a period of 9-12 months if other types of construction were undertaken after total mobilization.

"The 10 stations referred to as 'railhead facilities,' which the committee has authorized as defense insurance against total mobilization, are as follows:

Camp McCain, Miss.	$5,400,200
Camp Rucker, Ala.	1,387,389
Camp Shelby, Miss.	7,355,450
Camp Bowie, Texas	3,382,000
Camp Gruber, Okla.	9,913,700
Camp Robinson, Ark.	4,381,000
Camp Swift, Texas	5,831,600
Camp White, Oregon	11,285,000
Staging Area, Boston, Mass.	4,281,000
Staging Area, Hampton Roads, Va.	7,470,800

This confirms previous information which we had and which we passed on through the press some weeks ago. In other words, approximately seven and one-half million dollars will be spent to replace the sewers, water mains, streets, and other utilities and facilities with a small troop organization, more or less in the capacity of caretakers. Troops might or might not be trained there in large numbers, all depending upon what the future might require in the way of full mobilization. The camp would be thus available in a standby status if and when needed.

This action on the part of the Joint Chiefs of Staff reminds us of our urgent solicitation to two former Secretaries of War, Secretary Petterson and Secretary Royall, immediately after the War and prior to the demolition of Camp Shelby. We urged them repeatedly in person and by letter not to permit the removal of these water and sewage mains, heating and lighting facilities, and other permanent facilities in the light of the then existing world conditions. However, the Government had an overall program which they followed without exception. Had these facilities been kept, at least five million dollars of the taxpayer's money would have been saved.

J. C. Dabney Addresses Rotary

J. C. Dabney, a member of the Gulfport Rotary Club, was guest speaker when the Pass Christian Rotary met Tuesday noon at the Miramar Hotel.

The outstanding program was arranged by Robert Allen, program chairman for the week.

Dabney's speech was an interesting accumulation of facts and figures on the growth of the telephone company over the past years.

"The Telephone Company," said Dabney, "is the biggest company, not only in the United States, but in the entire world, with over one million owners. Telephone stock holders average one owner in every 45 families."

The phenomenal growth of the Telephone Company in the State of Mississippi is proven by the following subscribers; today there are over 250,000.

In Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis in particular there were in 1940 only 300 to 400 subscribers listed. Today there are well over 1,125.

Dabney also spoke on the coaxial cable which is now under construction and coming south. The cable will run from Jackson to New Orleans and it is hoped that in the very near future it will be completed with a tie in for the coast.

Stressing the advantages of the cable over the above ground wires now in use, Dabney noted the lessening of the possibility of storm or ice damage to the cable.

Visiting Rotarians at the meeting included Henry Osinich, Jr., W. W. Webre, Rene De Montluzin, all of Bay St. Louis.

Observes Birthday

Mrs. Merlin Ladner was hostess in her home on East Second street Wednesday afternoon, August 1, at a party for her daughter, Irene, on the occasion of her second birthday.

An oblong birthday cake centered the serving table with a traditional round cake on either end of the table. The color scheme was yellow and white with little Irene dressed in a bright yellow pinafore.

Ice cream, cake and punch was served by the hostess, and favors of tiny umbrellas for the girls and miniature pocket knives for the boys were given to the young guests who included Cynthia and De De Hayden, Sylvia and Jeanne Necaise, Ronnie and Pauline Cuevas, Horace Necaise, III; Beverly and Steve Ladner, Mollie and Jan Barksdale, Laddie Showers, Margaret Lynn and Ann Wittmann and Donna and David; Filigim of Long Beach, Barbara and Rea Hollaway, cousins of the honoree who are visiting from Alabama, and Alan Baker, also of Long Beach.

Games were played with Mollie Barksdale winning the prizes, and Ronnie Cuevas the boys' prizes in pin the tail on the donkey and find the sticks.

Favors of roll out whistles were given all the little guests.

Adult guests at the party included Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ladner, Irene's grandparents, Mrs. Joe Wilson, Irene's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Bernard Filigim, of Long Beach, Mrs. Alphonse St. Amant, Mrs. Jim Showers, Mrs. Wilbur Necaise, Mary Frances Necaise and Lydia Cuevas.

Miss Helen Lee, daughter of Mrs. Philip F. Lee, Jr., returned home Sunday from Quebec, Canada, where she attended the university La Val completing a six week course in the French language. The French course offered at the University is equivalent to a first year course in college. The students conversed in French solely, learning 40 to 50 words each day.

Helen served as good will ambassador being the only United States citizen attending a formal dance at the Citadel, an Army command overlooking the St. Lawrence, where Canadian soldiers are trained.

At the dance Helen was presented to the commanding officer of the Citadel who had an outstanding World War II record, having served in the French underground and completed 100 parachute jumps.

Other points of interest visited on tours with the other students included Lac Beauport, the Cathedral St. A. De Beupre, Chateau Frontenac where the students were entertained at a cocktail party and presented to the provincial Governor of Canada, the Parliament Building, Montrency Falls, an island in the St. Lawrence.

Helen returned home by train from Quebec to Baltimore and via the Southern to Slidell, La. Enroute to Canada she visited Ann Doub at Owings Mills, Maryland.

LETTERS

WORD TO THE WISE

New Orleans, La.
July 30, 1951

Editor,
The Echo,
Bay St. Louis, Miss.
Dear Sir:

Some 12 years ago I purchased a small home in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, and since that time I have spent almost every weekend there.

Immediately after I purchased the house, my assessment was more than doubled.

After 12 years I am constantly asking myself "what do I get in return for my tax money and the money I spend each weekend?"

All I can find I get in return is:

1. A filthy drainage ditch in front of my property.
2. A beach a block away strewn with debris—overgrown in weeds. To get to the water one must step over, oyster shells, etc. Results: cut up feet.
3. Hear the complaint of business houses, in the Bay, on how dull things are and I agree with them.
4. See less and less people coming to the Bay for holidays and vacations. Proof: Fourth of July.
5. Hear, my friends say—"do you have a house at the Bay? That's a Bourgeois" and I agree with them.

I read your paper each week and you have had some good editorials on ways and means to improve conditions and draw visitors.

Now that Harrison County has that beautiful beach—what has Bay St. Louis to offer?

Its going to take more than editorials to get things done. (Veritas)

A. H. DUFFOUS.

GUESTS OF BOURGEOIS

Out-of-town guests over the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bourgeois were Mrs. Bourgeois' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stiller, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benedict, their daughter, Mrs. Margie Romke and small son; their nephews, Herbert Stiller and George Stiller and daughter; Mrs. Bourgeois' daughter-in-law, Mrs.

Charles Crawford, and two daughters of New Orleans.

Mr. Bourgeois and Mr. Stiller and sons went on a fishing trip.

—Charles Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter, is home after summer classes at Mississippi Southern. He will return to school in September.

CARD OF THANKS

Ed P. Ortte

THANKS THE INDEPENDENT
CITIZENS FOR THE GRAND SUPPORT!

It was very gratifying to have received so many votes from the Independent Voters of Beat 5. I say independent because the support I received and expect to receive in the 2nd Primary are independent votes, free from the dictates of controlled organizations. It is well known that candidates backed by political groups or organizations always receive their full strength in the first primary so now this being true, I expect the independent voters to back me wholeheartedly in the second primary.

In this race there were opponents, all good fellows, the people thought so and divided their votes. I am grateful for having received the fine vote that sends me into the run off, especially when realizing that each of the votes I received were from independent voters. I am also grateful for having led in five precincts over my opponents who led only in two—the other two were carried by the third candidate.

I led in the South Bay, City Hall, Courthouse, Clermont Harbor and Lakeshore. Mr. Hubbard led in Waveland where he is alderman and Edwardsville. Mr. Favre led in Central School and North Bay. So you see I have reasons for being grateful for the independent voters support. For your information the votes 4 years ago in the 2nd primary was Ortte 1434 Hubbard 864 winning majority 570.

You will remember Mr. Mitchell mailed each of the citizens a letter giving figures and facts of the last 3 1/2 year record. I also SAID THERE MUST BE A REASON FOR SUCH great advancement in our county's financial records, there is a reason—honest efficient and sincere operation of the Board of Supervisors and clerk of Courts. Please remember I was president of the Board of Supervisors during this same 3 1/2 years, and believe me we all played our part in administering good clean, honest government.

Now I sincerely ask you the voters who for some reason or other cast your vote for another candidate in the 1st primary to please give me your deep consideration and vote in the second primary. If re-elected I assure you I will continue to serve to the very best of your interest. I will co-operate with the clerk and other board members as I have in the past.

Your overwhelming vote in re-electing the Clerk, in a three man race, indicates your approval of the present administration. Why take a chance breaking up a good winning team. A team that has stuck together for 3 1/2 years, that played and operated as a TEAM. Two of the members Mr. Kellar and Mr. Shaw, were re-elected already. Their people realized the necessity of keeping this team together and the clerk was also re-elected. Surely you the people of Beat 5 realize that your supervisor who is the president of the board should also be re-elected. I believe you will do this of course—but please don't be misled by unfair propaganda by opposing factions of this successful present administration. Certainly due credit goes to the president of any administration—be it a real ball club, oil company, a social club or any industrial organization, and if this organization is forging forward surely the president would not be removed or voted out of office—not when such success is constantly being obtained—no that is not plausible and I don't believe you people will let the president of your board down either—I know you won't because I have confidence in you. I have confidence in your judgment and your sincerity. If I did not believe in you as I do—I would not have asked to serve you in the past and would not be asking you now to please permit me to continue serving you for another term.

We have your county on a cash basis. The auditors records show that in this 3 year period the county has increased its surplus or net worth $452,238.83. We are forging forward and getting out of debt. Your bonded indebtedness has been reduced $194,200.00 in 3 years. If financial conditions continue to improve we will soon be able to reduce your taxes.

Remember your clerk has been re-elected; two members of the team have been re-elected. Now if you good people of Beat 5 will elect the 3rd man of the team Ed. Ortte, you will have your winning team back in operation for another 4 years—and also please remember that your MEMBER also is the president of this successful team.

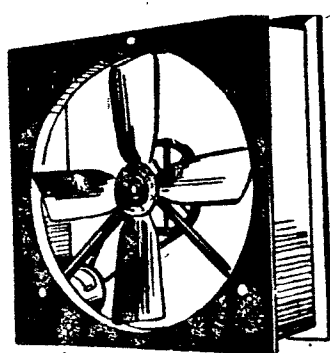

So when you go to the polls August 28th, please remember me as your friend and as one who wants to serve you another term.

Sincerely,
E. P. ORTTE.
